DWIGHT ROGERS WANTS U. S. BONDS TAKEN AT PAR FOR TAX PAYMENTS

If you are lucky enough to have a few government bonds floating around — but unlucky enough to find they have decreased a little in value, you will be interested in a bill introduced in the House by Congressman Dwight Rogers. The bill provides that, "The Secretary shall receive, at par (or at the price paid by the tax payer if less than par), in payment of any tax under this title not payable by stamp, any current income bond issued by the Government and purchased by the taxpayer." Yes, that means you could pay income taxes with government bonds and get credit for 100 cents on the dollar even though the market price had slipped a little. In his speech before the House, Rogers said, "It is my opinion that such a provision is fair, honest and equitable and this protection should be thrown around a tax payer and this right given certainly in the payment of an income tax due to the Government."

TWO REGISTRANTS FOR PREINDUCTION

There are only two registrants who have been ordered to report for preinduction examination on August 6, according to Mrs. F. W. Quinn, Local Board Clerk.

PAR-TEE LINE

Country Club of the Everglades

By Kathleen Livingston

Can't say too much for golfing these days with all this rain. Trouble is most people can't play golf if course is wet, but it seems that Joe Zieman, despite the rain and being ill during the Florida Open played O.K., and we're proud of him.

In the Pro-am Joe and Larry Nash came in with a 68 net, just one shot out of the money. Gosh, we sure hate that. In the Florida Open, Joe came in 11th and Ruthie already has the money spent on a new dress, and they say this is a man's world!

Louise McWhorter and Helen McCabe were among the winners in the blind partner event at the Plantation Golf Club Friday as the newly organized Gulf Stream Women's Golf Association staged its first interclub event with 93 participating.

The next event will be held Friday, August 14, at the West Palm Beach Country Club.

Guess Ladies Day will have to be postponed for a while or set another day as it rains every Wednesday — and every other day too.

Brazilian Educator Visits Here For Study Of Glades Industries

Dr. Marcilio Viana, Director of Education, Territory of Amapa, Brazil, was the guest of the local FFA Chapter last Thursday and was conducted on a tour of local agricultural interests and fiber and cattle production projects at Everglades Experiment Station by Ag. teacher, Sam Lovell.

His visit to Florida was the highlight of his U. S. tour which is being made to assist him in building an educational system for one of Brazil's previously under - developed territories, which is seeking to achieve statehood. Dr. Viana expressed himself as being "greatly impressed with the rich soil and highly mechanized farming" of the area.

Concerned mainly with industrial and rural life education for his territory, he is also interested in literacy education for adults and practical ways of teaching adults how to improve their own economic status with resources available to them.

The territory of Amapa is a subtropical region, lying just north of the Amazon River at the northeast corner of Brazil where most of the residents are engaged in cattle raising and in small-scale farming. The principal crops are rice, oranges, fiber plants, and cocoanuts. There is considerable pasturage and good farming land, with much more awaiting reclamation. Much has been done in the last few years to improve literacy for both children and adults in this rapidly expanding country which is called the "fastest growing section of Brazil."

The section boasts excellent hunting and fishing, with potential for fishing on a commercial basis good. There is considerable mining, Manganese, chromium, alleuvial gold, and extensive hardwood forests, but lumbering as yet has been undertaken only on a small scase.

Dr. Viana, a graduate lawyer from the Law School of Para, is a very able and enthusiastic young man with a command of English adequate for study, observation and travel purposes. With heavy educational responsibilities on his hands, the records indicate that he is doing a fine job in building an educational system for his territory.

Ramie Operation Being Revived On Progressive Basis

Dairying And Beef Added To Fiber Is Reported

From most reliable sources and deductions The Herald is able to report that the American Kenaf and Ramey Corporation is about to be financially rejuvenated by a group, as yet undisclosed, with plans for continuing and expanding the present ramey operation and the addition of dairy, beef and cattle feeds as permanent land use.

A. L. Guterma, formerly President and organizer of the original company is leading the negotiation for the infusion of new blood and new money into the operation.

According to our information the present obligations of the organization will be liquidated in cash within ten days and the new operators will be in the midst of ramey planting, preparation of land for grasses and construction of facilities to handle the cattle, at the latest next week.

Activity at the plantation is evident in the preparation of land and negotiations for other materials and equipment needed for the expanded operation.

Mose Kelly, engineer and Herman Close as Field Superintendent are expected to continue with the new organization.

Before our next issue, it is expected that confirmation of this new operation will have been given to the press within the State.

This rejuvenation of the fiber business and the major expansion into dairying in the Glades, coupled with the reported establishment of a major unit of Land O Sun at Indian Trail Ranch undoubtedly marks an historical time in the Glades.

Observation Posts Given Instructions For Practice Test

Mrs. Mary Foy, Supervisor of the Belle Glade Plane Spotting Observation Post has been advised that on Sunday from "1300 hours to 1700 hours" there will be a practice test of the local post.

Instructions for observers are given as follows:

1. Contact your local telephone operator.
2. Say "Aircraft Flash."
3. Give the operator your Observation Post phone number.
4. When you are connected with the Miami Filter Center, you will hear, "Air Defense, Go Ahead," then you will say, "Aircraft Flash" and proceed with the Aircraft Flash Message.
5. Do not hang up your receiver until the Filter Center says, "Check, Thank You."
6. Military and Civil Air Patrol planes will be used to augment this test so that each post will be assured of relaying several reports to the Miami Filter Center.
7. REMEMBER: When you make your last call to the Miami Filter Center, give us the number of calls made from your post and the number of personnel participating.

In reporting on the test given the 11th and 12th of July it is stated that the test generally was "good considering the weather" with "proficiency of observers, very good." Altogether the report states that "additional training" is advisable to acquaint observers with the normal procedure.

Mrs. Foy will be glad to have volunteers give her their names, telephones and addresses if they wish to join this group.

National Guardsmen In Good Humor As They Leave For Annual Camp

Commander Cromartie (lower center), Lieutenant McQueen of Pahokee and First Sergeant Howell of Clewiston, seem pleased at the readiness of their Company for the annual encampment to which they are headed at Camp McClelland at Anniston, Alabama.

The boys at top, just after the final check-up before boarding busses for West Palm, display the high morale which prevails among the Glades guardsmen.

They are Cpl. Theodore R. Johnson, Pahokee; Leroy Rhodes, South Bay; Davie R. Sims, Canal Point; Rufus I. Tull, Clewiston, Richard M. Tillis, Pahokee, and James C. Sims, Pahokee.

We too, boys! We're proud of your work.

1800 Acre Rice Crop Harvest Is Begun In Glades

The first car of rice of the summer harvest rolled from The Everglades Produce Company siding on Wednesday, July 22 and the second car left Monday. The rice was grown in the Lake Harbor area by Johnson & Bauer. Except for the continuous heavy rainfall the past ten days which has delayed the harvest, it is estimated that five or six cars would have been processed and sold by this time, according to I. L. Price of the Belle Glade Rice-Co-Op.

Growers of rice formed the cooperative as soon as experiments in rice culture demonstrated that this was an ideal rice country. A processing plant including dehydrator and mill is planned for the near future. In the meantime Frank Anderson owner and operator of The Everglades Produce Company, who also operates the South Bay Grains to process the summer dry corn crop, has co-operated last summer and this to dry and process the rice for the Co-Op until they have their own plant in operation.

There are now some 1800 acres of rice to be harvested during the present summer with planting in progress for the fall crop. Rice culture gives the Everglades grower an excellent summer crop to complete the years diversification of produce. It is easily and cheaply grown as it requires very little labor. No cultivation is necessary. Like wheat it is planted and left to mature until ready to be combined. The only other attention necessary is to give the young plants plenty of moisture by flooding the field at the proper time.

MILBURN NOE LEAVES IN AMBULANCE PLANE

Milburn Erwin Noe, Knoxville, Tenn., policeman, who was injured July 14 in an automobile accident and has been a patient at the Belle Glade Memorial Hospital, left Thursday morning in an ambulance one motor plane from Berry's in Knoxville.

Mr. Noe has been in an oxygen tent most of the time, and underwent surgery for a shattered knee cap, is improving although he will be unable to walk for some time.

The plane which was scheduled to stop at the Pahokee Airport made the Belle Glade landing and take off all right.

Mrs. Noe, who came down a week ago and had been staying at the Baptist parsonage with Mr. and Mrs. U. W. Malcolm accompanied her husband on the plane, which left Belle Glade air port at 9 am, and will make a one-stop flight, arriving in Knoxville about 2 pm, where they will be met by a police motorcade.

Accompanied to the air port by his nurse, Mrs. R. L. Murray, Mr. Noe was in a jolly mood. Friends from Miami and a group of friends he had made in Belle Glade were out to see him off.

Conventions Are Interesting Says Bill Graber Of The Lions At "Chi"

(Because there's a great mystery in the minds of some wives about these conventions, and because the Lions Convention at Chicago was historically important to Lions and attended by celebrities, we offer to you Bill Graber's written report to his fellow club members, given at Wednesday's meeting. Bill's reactions are interesting since he didn't write them for print).

We arrived in Chicago about 1:00 am, Tuesday night in what we call a 'heavy Florida dew.' We checked into our hotel and finally got to bed about 3:00 am.

The convention opened with a parade Wednesday morning at 9:30 am, which I didn't get to see. Seems as though we forgot our alarm and over slept. I finally got registered about noon.

I was told that the parade was one of the best ever put on by the Lions and a taxi driver said it was the best one he had ever seen in Chicago.

Ohio won first prize in the Float Division winning $750.00. Alaska was second, winning $500.00. Illinois was third, winning $250.00. In the Uniform Contest, Illinois won first, California second and Missouri third.

Wednesday night we went to the Chicago Stadium for the official opening of the convention. The convention was called to order by Immediate Past International Pres., Harold P. Nutter, Camden, N. J. International President, Edgar M. Elbert and Mrs. Elbert were escorted to the platform by the past international presidents and presented to the convention by the oldest Past Pres., Dr. C. C. Reed of Denver, Colorado.

We then heard welcome addresses by the Mayor of Chicago, Martin H. Kennelly and the Gov. of Illinois, William G. Stratton. Then there was a response to the addresses of welcome by the third Vice Pres., Humberto Valenzuela G., of Chile. Next, we heard several reports from various committees, and, finally, the annual report from the Director General, Roy Keaton, which I have enclosed. I think it would be well to read this report to the club from page one to four.

After this report comes what I think was one of the highlights of the convention, an address by Helen Keller. This, to me, was one of the most amazing speeches I have ever heard

Approaching Elections Bring City's Business Activities Publicity

Complicated Activities Demand Business Ability And Hard Work

With only two candidates having qualified to succeed themselves — Close and Carlton — and with conversation busy on who will announce for Mayor Collins' job, the City's business is a subject for considerable talk these days.

Your City has a current budget of $286,265, with an additional budget for the waterworks of $101,250; there are 60 employees of which seven are day laborers, with the waterworks using 12 of these.

The total assessment for tax purposes of the city are $7,911,-409, with $2,730,419 being exempt. Homestead exemptions account for $1,921,475 of this, with churches, organizations etc. accounting for about $800,000.

Your city issues 960 licenses to do business, with 60 of these for beverage.

Your waterworks reads from 1250 to 1400 water meters each year with a payroll of $33,000 and a budget of $101,250.

There is a police department, a waterworks, a street department, sanitary department and parks, anyone of which is a job in itself.

Your City Commission are men who must make a living at other jobs, and should set the policies to be followed, but the actual administration of these policies are a job in themselves, which is now jointly administered by the Commission members and the heads of the several departments.

Your city is big business, and is continually growing; a city that is growing as this one is, needs the highest type men to set the policies and see that they are carried out.

Add to the well being of your community by entering into discussions on candidates; whatever is said or done will serve the good purpose of making voters think — when voters think, they get what they want.

Glades To Benefit In Roads From The FCD's Excess Rock

Glades farmers can look forward to a bigger and better network of farm roads thru the action of the Flood Control District in arranging with the U. S. Engineers for excess rock from canal digging to be used by landowners, drainage districts and the County.

While the County Commission has asked for the rock for its own use, landowners have earlier made representations to the Board for the use of the rock on contiguous land, county and state roads. The District has previously entered negotiations with the Engineers for this rock for the benefit of the taxpayers, and tentative arrangements have been made for this.

Years ago the several Water Control Committees, particularly that of the RDB made official requests to the Board and to the U. S. Engineers to see that landowners are given the preference of this rock in building farm to market roads, which the Glades is remarkably free of at present.

If the landowners are given a whack at the rock, then roads will be built by farmers where needed instead of having to run the gauntlet of political whims and preference.

With a share of the rock the taxpayers in the Glades will further benefit thru selected road building by the County Commission.

ROADS, BEACH EROSION AND WATER CONTROL IS COMMISSION DISCUSSION

At the request of Rardin, the County Commission adopted a resolution asking the State Road Department to include in its Vinegar Bend road project an extra 300 to 400 feet and a culvert to replace a small bridge.

Beach erosion came up again Monday at the board's session when Commissioner Kenneth Foster reported on meetings with the Jupiter Inlet District. On his advice the board voted to seek sand deposits from the US Corps of Engineers for beach erosion work in the Juno area. Foster said sand which will be dredged from the Inland Waterway this fall can be transferred to the beach south of the Jupiter Inlet where the ocean's littoral drift will deposit it farther down the coast.

Board members also voted to request the FCD to make a survey of drainage for the area from Okeechobee Rd. north to Jupiter-Indiantown Rd. Foster, who proposed the survey said it would aid the county when it goes ahead with its plan to extend SR7 north to Lake Park West Rd. and aid in the water conservation plans of West Palm Beach if its westward expansion becomes a reality.

The Board instructed the county court house custodian, at the request of Rardin, that a new American flag be obtained for the building since the present one is in a "bad state of repair."

Authorized the county engineer and attorney to go to Tallahassee Aug. 4 for the letting of bids on the state road projects.

Requested the Internal Improvements Board to sell a small island south of Jupiter in the waterway for a nominal sum so the county could have it for parks and road purposes.

Well, it looks as if the old pioneer spirit still has a few good kicks in it. Now that we have more leisure time than anybody in the world ever had before, we're getting to be busier than a kid with a new set of crayons and a clean wall in front of him. There's a great boom in the "do-it-yourself" business . . . with the accent on the home. More than ever before people are hacking away at chunks of lumber, buttering bricks with mortar, sewing, painting and gardening.

What's the cause? It's a combination of high costs, a shortage of skilled workers . . . and that pioneer spirit needling us. A psychologist says all these hobbies are giving us a chance to bolster our egos by by doing a complete job by ourselves. Anyone who ever nailed a few boards together and made something out of them will know what the psychologist means.

DOUG

Few will dispute the swell it gives one's ego to "do it yourself" — if a good job is turned out— and for sure, the high costs of hiring a job done often urges one to give it a try himself.

When it comes time to have a prescription filled tho, the "do- it yourself" urge leaves us — we want assurance that our prescriptions are accurately compounded — no guess work there. That's why so many people head for Glades Drug Store where confidence in the skill of the pharmacist is justified.

If you need an alibi to show why you have joined the "do-it-yourself" movement, one of our more relaxed citizens says that it's now too hot to do anything about the things it was too cold to do during the winter. You can beat the heat and shop in comfort in our air conditioned store, whether you just want to fill a prescription or to shop for the finest in toiletries and cosmetics, at GLADES DRUG STORE.

CONVENTIONS ARE

or seen. If you listened closely you could make out most everything she said. Her companion repeated every phrase for her. Miss Keller kept her hand on her companions cheek to tell when she finished talking and it was something to witness her carrying on a conversation with her companion by code tapped out in the palm of her hand.

If you ever get a chance to see Helen Keller you should make an effort to do so.

After this, we had an address from Pres. Elbert, which I am also enclosing, which I think you can get more out of by reading. Pres. Albert has a very good personality and is a good speaker.

After this, another highlight was presenting the flags of the 45 countries in Lionism. Eight of these countries have come in this last year. They are Paraguay, Lebanon, Morocco, Scotland, Austria, Luxembourg, Algeria nd Liechtenstein.

The flags were presented by pretty girls dressed in the native costumes of each country. It was a very touching performance. After the flag ceremony the convention was adjourned at about 12:00 o'clock.

Thursday morning:

Convention session was called to order by Pres. Albert. We then listened to a long list of reports which somehow didn't register too well with me. Next, were reports on progress of Lionism on the continents of Africa, Asia, Australia and Europe.

Australia now has 20 clubs. The first Lions Club was chartered in Europe in 1948 and was in Sweden. They now have 80 clubs, 40 of which were chartered this last year. There are 2,000 Lions in Sweden, Finland has three clubs.

England boasts 20 clubs, which includes Scotland, and predicts 100 more clubs in the next three years. They raised $36,000.00 for flood relief in the recent flood disaster there and in Holland.

We then had the presentation of the Past International Presidents, International Officers and Directors, Board of Governors, Board of Internal Relations and District Governors which was long and tiresome.

After that the Necrology Service which was very impressive. Then the session closed until Friday morning.

The convention was again called to order by Pres. Elbert on Friday morning.

We heard an address by Basil O'Connor, Pres. of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. I didn't get too much of his speech because it was pretty noisey in the hall at this time. Too much politicing for third Vice Pres. going on. After this speech the session was again adjourned.

Oh yes, I forgot, we went to the stadium Thursday night to see a program put on by the Lions of Michigan. This was a very good program and featured Phil Spitalny and his All Girl Orchestra plus many other good artists. We enjoyed this very much.

Friday night — back to the stadium again for the International Night Revue. This was another good program which will long be remembered. Rudy Valee was one of the star performers on this show.

This was over about 12 o'clock and then back to town again and to the President Ball at the Sherman Hotel. Didn't get to bed 'til about 3:30 am. again.

Got up at 6:30 Saturday morning to attend the Florida State Breakfast at the Walnut Room in the Bismark Hotel. Approximately 100 attended. I might say, at this time, that Florida had 150 delegates at the convention which is the largest number ever representing our state.

There was only one flaw at this breakfast — no body knew the Florida State song. The only thing we could sing was "Are You From Dixie." Oh yes, one scrambled egg, a piece of ham, toast and coffee all for three bucks.

At the breakfast we were pretty well assured that the convention would be in Miami in '56. Also were told that the Florida booth at the exhibit hall had served about 65,000 cups of orange juice.

We also met the past and present District Gov. Most of the Florida delegates and their ladies wore seminole costumes during the convention. Also, as you no doubt read in the paper, Peaslee Streets was there with two alligators and two snakes which caused a lot of excitement and confusion. He was finally requested to move from the Bismark because the employees were afraid of the alligators. The one Boa Constrictor died af ter the parade.

Before the presentation of the new officers we heard an address by the Secretary of the Navy, Anderson, which again didn't get to me very well.

After the new officers were presented, newly elected Pres. Dodge gave his acceptance speech. He is a very fine speaker and I think will make us a good president.

There must have been 15,000 present at this last meeting which they tell me was very unusual. The reason for this was that the Lions from Tenn. were giving away a Cadillac at the close of the last session and you had to be present to win it— so, I stayed too but didn't win.

After Pres. Dodge's speech started a long line of gift presentations which I think should be barred from all conventions because it could go on for hours. Some of the things presented were a Cadillac to the Past Pres. Elbert from the Lions of Illinois and a four month old lion to Pres. Dodge.

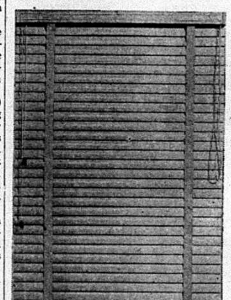

The session finally ended about three hours behind schedule and it was a mad rush back to the hotels to check out and start home.

I would like to thank you, Lion Vernie, for appointing me a delegate. I can't tell you how much I enjoyed it even though it took me a week to recover from the loss of sleep, etc. I met a lot of nice people and hope I have made some new friends. I am looking forward to going to New York next year.

By the way, what happened to Big Ray? I looked all over Chicago for him. I think the conventions would be a lot better with two or more from your home club attending.

I am having a nice vacation but am getting a little anxious to return to Belle Glade. So — 'til the first of September, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
Bill.

Too Late To Classify

While moose are not included among the wildlife of Florida, the state does have a "Moosehaven" and indications are, the peninsula will be overrun with Moose next month.

The Miami Convention Bureau, supported by Governor Dan McCarty and other Florida members of the Loyal Order of Moose, conducted a successful Moose-hunting expedition that resulted in bringing the 65th annual convention of the Loyal Order of the Moose to Florida this summer. Convention dates are August 15 to 21.

One of the largest fraternal organizations in existence, the Loyal Order of Moose has 1,800 lodges on the continent of North America and a membership of over a million.

While no one knows, of course, how many of these thousands of members will journey to Florida for the convention, Convention Chairman George S. Okell of Miami anticipates one of the largest gatherings in the history of the organization.

It is fitting that Florida should entertain the Loyal Order of Moose, for the organization selected this state 31 years ago as the ideal location for its home for aged members, and Moosehaven was established at Orange Park, 18 miles South of Jacksonville. Since that time approximately three and a half million dollars have gone into the development, and maintenance today runs about one hundred thousand dollars a year.

Moosehaven differs radically from many other public or private homes for the aged. Husband and wife are not separaated — no Moose member, for example, who has a wife, can alone enjoy its benefits; his wife must go with him and live with him.

The establishment bears no likeness to any poorhouse or poor farm the civilibed world over. It is variously called "The City of Opportunity" or "The City of Contentment."

Each man and woman at Moosehaven is given occupation in the task for which he or she is best fitted by training and experience. Each receives in addition to life's necessities such as shelter, food, clothing, medical care, recreation — remuneration for services rendered.

Because of the health-giving properties of the Florida sun, the excellence of care provided, and freedom from worry, the life span of the average citizen has been extended a decade.

Conventioners will first assemble at Moosehaven, where most of them will see for the first time just how the dependent of the Order are cared for. The entire day of August 15 will be spent there.

The convention itself will open in Miami Aug. 16 and continue through Aug. 21. An elaborate program of business and entertainment has been arranged by George Okell and his hard working committee.

Florida attraction folks are dusting off their Moose calls and inviting the thousands who will come by car to "See Silver Springs" — "Stop at Marineland" or "Visit Beautiful Cypress Gardens."

Conventions today are big business. Florida is fortunate in having a city like Miami that can offer facilities for such large groups as the Moose, Elks, American Legion and other national organizations with such large memberships that only a few cities in the nation can care for them. It is also fortunate that this city is located so that visitors must travel most of the state to reach it. Conventioners leave a trail of dollars behind them wherever they go. Treat them with friendliness and courtesy and they will return again and again.

VETERANS INFORMATION AND SERVICE

By Melvin T. Dixon
State Service Officer

Korean War Service Dependents. The widow, children and dependent parents of a deceased veteran with service since June 27, 1950, whose death was due to service, may qualify for death compensation.

The surviving widow, child or children, and dependent parents of any deceased veteran, whose death resulted from a service-connected disease or injury, incurred in or aggravated in line of duty in active service, are entitled to death compensation.

The widow must have married the veteran prior to the expiration of 10 years after the end of the Korean War, a date yet to be set. No compensation is payable to the widow unless there was continuous cohabitation with person who served from date of marriage to date of death except where there was a separation which was due to misconduct of, or procured by, person who served and without fault of widow.

Parents may be paid compensation provided they are dependent upon their deceased son who died in service or as the result of service-connected disability. Compensation paid to the parents will not reduce the compensation to widow or children. If parents are not dependent now but in later years they do not have sufficient income to be self-supporting, they may at that time apply for death compensation.

A widow loses her entitlement if she remarries. Unmarried children normally lose their entitlement upon reaching age 18, but if they are attending a school approved by the VA, they may continue to receive death compensation while attending school, but not after they are 21 or married.

Amounts payable are: Widow, no child, $75; widow, one child, $121 (each additional child $29); one parent, $60; two parents, each $35.

Florida is a vast, rich beautiful state with 58,560 square miles of territory laced together by a fine network of fishable streams, lakes and canals.

NEW HYDRAULIC HITCH ON DISPLAY AT HARVESTER STORES IN THE GLADES

A New Product Exhibit to introduce the new Farmall Fast-Hitch for the Farmall Super C tractor and featuring several new types of International Harvester farm equipment will be held in the Pahokee and Belle Glades stores next week, according to Ned Ayers, local International dealer.

On display will be a good number of the 77 new machines which have been developed and produced by International Harvester Company, in the last 770 days — on an average of one every 10 days. Leading the list will be the revolutionary new Fast-Hitch that couples implement to tractor instantly and automatically. It was designed by IH engineers to speed up farm work and make it easier.

"We think the new Fast-Hitch is the most important development in the farm machinery field in several years," Ned stated. "To hitch to an implement, you just back the tractor up until the two beams on the implement snap into the hitch-sockets on the tractor."

"That's all there is to it, it's really a snap! The hitch locks instantly and automatically. In just a split second you are ready to go," said Mr. Ayers. "You don't have to leave the seat to hitch or unhitch either. Unhitching is done by lifting a latch in each of the coupling beams."

Fast-Hitch is so designed that it can be made free-floating vertically or horizontally, or it can be locked in any position required by the implement. It can also be hydraulically tilted or leveled. All positions of the hitch are hydraulically controlled.

"Another important feature," Ned continues, "is the fact that Fast-Hitch gives the tractor driver unusually accurate control over the line of F-H implements.. For example, uniform depth of the plow can be hydraulically maintained in spite of ground contour variations."

The New Product Exhibit will be in both stores and all farmers in this area are invited to attend.

Mary Claire Crider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Crider attended the University of Miami's sixth annual Summer Music Camp. The fifth and final concert of the season, Sunday, July 26, climaxed a summer of concentrated music study for 210 students in the camp.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By Russell Kay

There is a tremendous building project underway in Putnam County on a 320-acre tract bordering the St. Johns River.

You won't find this operation listed under "building permits," but each individual unit is more important and more meaningful to the future of the state and the nation than any construction job being accomplished with concrete or steel.

The work is under the supervision of the "Architect of the Universe" for the contractor has undertaken the task of "building boys" under the assumption that "It is better to build boys than mend men."

This phrase persisted in the busy mind of Homer Rodeheaver, nationally known evanelistic song leader and sacred music publisher as he was flying from London to Paris.

The truism, coupled with his dream of creating a haven for needy, worthy boys, obscured all else, and it was not until he felt the sudden lift of the great plane that be became aware of the dense fog that had been enveloping them. With the other travelers, he then gazed out into the murky grayness as the pilot soared upwards.

"And suddenly we rose out of nothingness into almost unbelievable beauty, for beneath us lay a complete circle of rainbow hues; gorgeous coloring that no artist's skill could duplicate." Mr. Rodeheaver recalls, "at one time the shadow of the plane formed a complete cross in the center of the radiant circle."

It was at this moment that concrete plans for 'Rainbow Ranch for Boys" became a reality.

Years before, Rodeheaver had acquired a large acreage on the St. Johns River near Palatka. He and his partner Harry Westbury contributed this tract as a location for a Boys' Ranch.

Rodeheaver Boys' Ranch is a place where unwanted boys are wanted, where security and faith and understanding are given to boys who previously had known only failure, rebuff and cruelty; it has a very dynamic role to play in the lives of boys who break under the strains and insecurities of our present day world.

Purpose of the ranch is to provide a wholesome home environment with religious, school, and vocational training for boys who, through neglect, poverty or unsatisfactory home adjustment, are drifting into delinquency.

Twelve boys and their cottage parents occupy each cottage unit. Religious training is strictly non - denominational, planned to meet the needs of each boy. All boys attend the public schools in Palatka, and on Sunday the church of their choice in the same community. Their contacts and life are as normal as that of other children.

Operation of the ranch is handled by an executive committee and Karl Lehmann is executive director while Fred A. Borg is superintendent.

Fishing, swimming and nature study are enjoyed. Each boy has certain chores that he performs on the ranch. They tend livestock, work in the garden and are getting a practical knowledge along with their book learning.

The ranch is a non-profit organization supported entirely, in conjunction with the gifts of Mr. Rodeheaver and his partner, by voluntary contributions from those who believe in giving less fortunate boys a new start and an opportunity to make good.

Applicaitons for the admission of homeless, abandoned, neglected or underprivileged boys who are physically and mentally sound, may be made by guardians, welfare agencies, churches or the courts.

Every contribution to Rodeheaver Boys' Ranch is a sound investment in your world of tomorrow.

PASTOR AND FAMILY TO ATTEND SON'S WEDDING

After the wedding they plan to go to Bradenton until they return to Belle Glade August 27.

During Rev. Hollady's absence the Sunday morning services will be in charge of guest speakers. There will be no evening services.

These suggestions will help put your civilian house in order, wtih a minimum of inconvenience.

First, get your separation papers recorded with your county recorder. Get photostatic copies made, and store the original in a safe place. Although a replacement certificate may be obtained in case of loss, it is a time consuming process. Your discharge certificate is the key to all veterans' benefits. Guard it well.

Second, if you wish to take out low-cost government insurance available to you, apply for it immediately after returning home. Don't wait until the 120-day deadline after separation passes.

Third, if employed before entering service and you wish to resume your old job, notify your former employer immediately after separation.

If you intend to use your Korean GI Bill education and training benefits, start making plans now — not a week before the school semester opens. Choose your program wisely. Under the Korean GI Bill you can make only one change in the course.

If you were injured in line of duty and your service records do not show the injury or service-incurred illness, get affidavits now from those who would remember the incident. You will need such testimony to support your claim for disability compensation in the absence of official medical records.

Notify your draft board of your home address, after seperation.

If government insurance or other obligations have been waived while on active duty, under terms of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, take steps to resume your obligations.

Fresh water fishing licenses expired June 30. Be sure and pick up your next year's angling permit before your next fishing trip.

BG EPISCOPAL CHURCH HAS FIRST BAPTISM

The Sacrament of Baptism according to the ritual of the Episcopal Church was administered last Sunday night for the first time in the history of Belle Glade when Father John Clarence Petrie received "into the congregation of Christ's flock" Jennilee Smith, six weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes G. Smith of NW Avenue I.

The ceremony took place by special permit from the Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, D.D., bishop of the diocese of South Florida, in the home of E. M. Lively, NW Avenue F. The law of the Church, explained Father Petrie, expects baptisms to be administered in a church building. But at present St. John's congregation of Belle Glade has no church building, meeting instead on Sunday nights in one another's homes. This being the case he wrote the bishop for a ruling. The bishop stated that the home of members where other services were now being held become the church in this instance. The baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Delaney of West Palm Beach and Mrs. Thomas Bregger of Belle Glade, are the godparents.

Father Petrie explained that according to Church teaching Baptism is a Sacrament of the dead; that is, the one to be baptized is not in the state of grace, but is raised to that supernatural state when the Sacrament has been administered by the pouring of water upon the head in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. The baptized baby becomes a member of Christ and entitled to heaven. When the child reaches the age of discretion it is taught the catechism and then presented to the bishop for Confirmation at which time the child takes in its own name the vows and promises which were made by the god-parents at the time of the Baptism.

BOARD OF VESTRY TO MEET SATURDAY

The Board of vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the office of Dr. Richard Townsend Friday, July 31 at 4 pm on S.E. 1st Street.

FATHER PETRIE BEGINS THIRD YEAR IN GLADES

Next Sunday the Episcopal churches in the Glades will observe the second anniversary of the coming to this field of the Rev. John Clarence Petrie. On August 1, 1951, Father Petrie took charge of the Church of the Holy Nativity, Pahokee and St. Martin's Church, Clewiston. Most Belle Glade Episcopalians attended the Pahokee church, a smaller number going to Clewiston. Last December he began holding services on Sunday nights in the home of the Belle Glade members. This experiment was such a success that the Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, DD., bishop of South Florida diocese, established St. John's Episcopal Church.

The Sunday night meetings in the homes will continue through September 6. On September 13, regular Sunday morning service and Sunday School will be held in the Woman's Club building.

Father Petrie will celebrate the Holy Communion next Sunday at 9 A. M. in Pahokee and at 11 A. M. in Clewiston, preaching on the anniversary theme. At 6 P. M. the St. John's members will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roberts. Father Petrie will speak on Devotions for the Holy Communion.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH AIM BETTER WEDDING MUSIC

The familiar strains of Mendelssohn and Wagner will not be heard at weddings in Episcopal churches if the report of the Joint Commission on Church Music is carried into effect. The report is based on the Episcopal belief that marriage is a Sacrament and therefore should be solemnized to the accompaniment of music fitted to indicate that a wedding is not a social function.

The Commission condemn such often requested organ pieces as Wagner's "Lisbestod" from Tristan und Isolda, Liszt's "Liebestraum," Schubert's "Serenade, and Lemare's "Andantino in D flat." Taboo also are the solos, "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Because," "Sweet Mystery onf Life'" "Indian Love Call," and "Just For Today."

The report is put out by Seabury Press, Greenwich, Conn., the official publishing house of the Episcopal Church and may be obtained by anyone interested in seeing an improvement in wedding music. A large selection of organ and vocal pieces is recommended. Over and above that is a Reference Guide put out by the Episcopal diocese of South Florida, which may be ordered from 906 Orleans Street, Tampa 6.

M. Y. F. SPAGHETTI SUPPER TONIGHT

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Community Methodist Church is sponsoring a benefit spaghetti supper tonight at the church. The proceeds will go to the building fund to help defray the expenses of plastering the interior of the new church. Tickets are on sale now and may be secured from any member of the youth group. Admission is 75c for adults and 50c for children. The supper will be served from six until eight in the evening and only those who buy a ticket beforehand may eat for tickets will not be sold at the door. Every one is urged to come and help these kids with their part in the building of the new Methodist Church. There'll be plenty of good food — we guarantee.

DR. STEFFANO LEAVES ON MONTHS VACATION

Outline for The INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, AUGUST 2. 1953

LESSON TOPIC—"Christian Ideals For Family Living"

SCRIPTURE — Colossians 3:12-4:1

By Rev. Robert Ford

INTRODUCTION:

In addition to the printed text from Colossians, we should approach this lesson with Paul's letter to the Ephesians 5:15-33, 6:1-9, In Ephesians 5:22-23, Paul writes of the relationship of the husband and wife as the same as exists between Christ and His Church; in 6:1-9, Paul gives parallel advice to the printed passage.

I. Putting on the New Man — Colossians 3:12-17.

Paul sets forth the Christians new character, which is to be realizes in the life of the home.

II. Submitting Yourself One to Another in the Fear of God — Colossians 3:18-4:1.

We see here at work the process of three of the basic relationships for life. Here is the backbone of society.

a. Husbands and Wives — Colossians 3:18-19 (see also Ephesians 5:25).

b. Parents and Children — Colossians 3:20-21.

c. Masters and Servants — Colossians 3:22-4:1.

CONCLUSION:

Paul undertakes to improve and influence human relations by working from both sides. His counsel was given to husbands and wives, parents and children, masters and servants. He shows that one must work from both sides. The problems of family life and economic relations cannot be solved from one side. Each side must give a little, try a little and bring something to the tense situation in terms of common sense, honesty, and love.

THIS WEEK'S SERMONETTE

PRAYER

Contributed by Donald R. Lane,
Christian Science Committee on Publication for Florida

Nearly everyone prays occasionally — many pray frequently. Some pray only when danger threatens or when all else has failed. Others pray daily and hourly to bring their thinking with God's law of harmony, His love for His creation, and His grand purpose for the man He created.

Sometimes the constant demands of these busy days would argue that one cannot be quiet —that there is little or no time for prayer. Under such circumstance, however, do we not find ourselves especially in need of the peace, the quiet, and the assurance and the dynamic inspiration which result from prayer?

All Christians recognize that Christ Jesus possessed a greater understanding of God than any other man. His wonderful works proved His ability to apply that understanding successfully to whatever phase of distress or inharmony confronted him. Yet we read in Luke (6:12) that he was known to spend all night in prayer and following such prayer he healed multitudes.

If Christ Jesus spent hours in prayer, how much more do His followers need to spiritualize their thinking if they would prove the power of God to be everpresent and available! The question naturally follows, How is God to be acknowledged or recognized in prayer?

Scientific or demonstrable prayer accords with the rules given by Jesus. It includes acknowledging God's presence, power, and goodness. It includes a faith that is positive conviction, based on the understanding of God's nature and the nature of man in His likeness. It means acknowledging God's qualities in our thinking and rejecting negative, ungodlike thoughts. As man steadfastly prays the prayer of spiritual understanding, he finds health, redemption and peace, and knows the joy of answered prayer.

In her book, "No and Yes," Mary Baker Eddy says, "Prayer can neither change God, nor bring His designs into mortal modes; but it can and does change our modes and our false sense of Life, Love, and Truth, uplifting us to Him. Such prayer humiliates, purifies and quickens activity, in the direction that is unerring."

WATER CONTROL ACCOUNTS FOR SPECIAL GOVERNMENT UNITS IN THIS COUNTY

A total of 616 separate governmental units in Florida, set up by Floridians for purposes of self government, operate in the state today. These are all below the state and federal levels.

In 1942 the number of these governmental units in the state stood at 502, a 23 percent increase, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday. Nationally there has been a 25 percent decrease in the number of governmental units due principally to the consolidation of school districts throughout the nation.

The current Florida total is made up of 67 counties and 67 school districts, the same as in 1942; municipalities numbering 294, which is 27 more than ten years ago, and 188 special districts. In 1942 there were 101 special districts.

This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division shows a breakdown of the special districts all of which are relatively autonomous. The majority of these, 105, have been established for development of natural resources; 52 for soil conservation; 48 for drainage; and 3 each for beach erosion and flood control.

There are 25 special hospital governmental units; 20 for housing and community development; 12 for health purposes; 7 for improvement of navigation; 6 for sanitation; 4 port authorities; 4 fire protection units and 5 miscellaneous units.

County totals show that Palm Beach County has 20 special districts; Hillsborough has 14; Broward and Volusia have 9 each; and Dade, Henry and Manatee have 7 each. Twenty-three counties have one each and in 7 counties no special districts have been formed.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

From George Smathers U.S.S.

WASHINGTON — Various agitators from time to time have been seeking to undermine the morale of some of our elder citizens by declaiming about fancied plots to destroy the nation's system of benefits under the Socieal Security Act.

These citizens are not easily deceived, but reports reach me that some are becoming worried. The truth is that there is no trend to weaken the system but rather to strengthen it. It is fairly certain now that next year when the Congress reviews the operations of various programs under the Social Security Act further amendments to adjust programs, to eliminate inequities, and provide additional deserved benefits will result.

Social Security is safe — And the system is here to stay. Already I have talked to members of the Finance Committee, which would pass upon such legislation, and have assured support for several proposals I have made. One would lift the ceiling on earnings (my amendment was adopted last year to raise this limit from $50 to $75 monthly) and I do not expect any difficulty in raising this to $100. Another proposal which is supported by Senator George (Democratic leader on this committee) would provide benefits for permanently disabled.

Forum Appearance — Am scheduled to debate UMT with Senator Ed Johnson, (Col.) on the American Forum of the Air (Radio-TV) Sunday, August 2.

Cupid's Work — Romance has raided my office staff again. Lucille Dabbs of Pensacola, one of the best of my fine office staff, is leaving when Congress adjourns. She is sailing for France in the early fall and will become the bride of Colonel Matthew Thompson, of the US Air Force in Europe.

News Notes off the Cuff: To assist the aluminum manufactures which abound in Florida, I hope to see adopted my bill, supported by Small Business Committee, to exempt imports of aluminum during the next year when virtually all our domestic supply will be used for defense stockpiling. . . . Citrus industry gets a new shot in the arm by the inclusion of concentrate in the coming year's National School Lunch program. . . Thanks for all the fine letters about my vote against the treaty which will permit trial of U.S. soldiers by local (foreign) authorities in European (NATO) countries where they may be accused of law violations (we lost and the treaty was ratified) . . . My office has a few copies of the "Smathers" (July 4) issue of SUNTIME Magazine available upon request to those who didn't see Harris Powers' fine piece; also some copies of the reprint of a published article regarding problems of business and government ("Let's Stop Asking Washington For It").

Outdoor Florida

By Herb Mosher

Recently English literature (The Compleat Angler) gave variety to this column. This week French literature takes its turn — but it will be in English! Charlie Sauriol of the French magazine LE SAMEDI has written a guest column for me, based on an article in his magazine, dealing with the French country over in Louisiana. This article recently was promised to readers, so here goes. Sauriol, well known in Florida, has written several outstanding pieces for Outdoor Florida. When he was last here he talked much about the Acadians made famous by Longfellow's poem, Evangeline, so now for his impressions from that historic area:

The People of the Land of Evangeline

The people of Evangeline had been pictured to me as a quaint sect of ancient Acadians, living along sinister, snake-infested Louisiana Bayous (from the Indian word Bayouk, meaning "dormant water"), in tottering shacks, prototypes of deformation of customs, and particularly of language. I decided to find out how much of this was true.

The Acadian country lies 150 miles west of New Orleans. It is a three and half hour run in Southern Pacific's morning train from New Orleans, which gets one in New Iberia at precisely 2 pm. This place is nine miles from St. Martinsville, which is 15 miles from Lafayette in the center of population of the Acadian area.

The first misconception ot be disposed of, is that concerning the land. The Cypress swamps of the New Orleans area, beautifully seen from the Huey Long Bridge, give way some miles later to be replaced by black soil of fine texture.

These flat fields extend back to the tree line, much as they would in Quebec's Abitibi. This fertile soil produces sugar cane, rice, vegetables and in some areas, sweet potatoes.

The centers of population mentioned are modern, up-to-date towns in every respect; patterns of cleanliness in almost every quarter. One soon becomes familiar with the accents of French snatched here and there from conversations on the streets.

I selected St. Martinsville as the logical starting place for my study. The church was built in 1765, dating from the arrival of the first Acadians. The present parish priest and his curate are two French-Canadians from Sherbrooke and Quebec City. This in itself is significant from a language standpoint of view for m any of the offices of the Church are conducted in French. The confessions are mostly heard in French. St. Martinsville draws its parish from the back country as well as the neat residences of the town.

Professor Jay Ditchy of Tulane University has published a volume "Les Acadiens Louisianias et leur Parler." In this volume are listed the words and expressions used by the Acadians and which must be translated into French. Now, this condition also applies to certain words and expressions which have grown up in certain parts of Quebec Province. Recall that the Acadians have handed down their French for 200 years with little outside support. Therefore, this French contains Sixteenth Century French, and language which even among the Acadians is in some respects regional—expressions applying to one area and not to another.

However, on going into little restaurants, on talking to shopkeepers, to cattle breeders, taxi drivers and upper bracket landowners, I was everywhere answered in French which differed from Quebec largely in accent. Your Acadian speaks French with an old country accent which might be compared to a Torontonian speaking English with a London accent.

The representatives of the Acadian population who enjoyed a superior education as offered in several of the local institutions, speak a fluent easy-to-follow, even brillian French. For example, Monsieur D—, a local keeper; Mme. H—, who in truth could have arrived from Marseilles the day before.

One keeps on falling into the illusion of being in Quebec Province. The pattern is much the same: smaller houses, large farms, pastured cattle. There are several similes: In Quebec it is the sugar-beet; here, the sugar-cane—in Quebec, the horse; here, the mule—in Quebec, the spruce and the elm; here, the wide spreading oak and the pecan—in Quebec, the hydro tower; here, in the tower are largely the same: the Acadian of Louisiana measured of the oil fields. But the people against the Acadian of New Brunswich would offer even less difference. The names encountered in Louisiana are the names to be seen and heard in New Brunswick.

The land of Evangeline has been over-dramatized and overcolored. Generalization and surface knowledge have misrepresented a race of 300,000 people. The word "cajun" in its description of 300,000 people has taken on, like Spanish moss and hangs on the heads of all, irrespective of background or foreground.

Persons in the Louisiana French country have a French background of more recent extraction than the Acadians; descendents of the French colonization of Louisiana. Some of the Bayou boys married French girls overseas and brought them back to Louisiana. At the close of the Enghteenth Century, French refugees, aristocracy fleeing from the French revolution, came to Louisiana. There were among them barons, counts, a marquis or two, many ladies of noble birth. These refugees from the court of France took up a new abode on the banks of the Bayou Teche, where St. Martinsville now stands and, there simulated their former social life. Alas, their fortunes and their heirs gradually fitted into new surroundings. These people are today represented by descendants whose speech tells clearly of comparatively recent affiliations with people of excellent birth. Perhaps, from these sources some quaint words have still been handed down. Accordingly, one sees over a drugstore in St. Martinsville, not the word "pharmacie," but "apothicaire."

The inception of the French settlement in the land of Evangeline actually dates from the year 1665 when a few French settlers were permitted by the Spanish government to make this their home.

The first Acadians joined them a few years later settling principally on Bayou Teche where St. Martinsville now stands.

There is a culture in Evangeline land about which too little is known. For example, French news is broadcast over the air. French is taught from the third grade in the elementary schools through high school in eight parishes in Louisiana.

In Lafayette parish, French is not taught at present until the eighth grade. Next September, however, French will be taught in the third grade in Lafayette as well.

Professors at South Western Louisiana Institute are from La Sorbonne. Local people, for example Dr. Josea Phillip from Ville Platte, Evangeline parish, and Mlle. Montegut from La Fourche parish, received their doctorates at La Sorbonne.

A number of persons in Lafayette are members of France-Amerique de la Louisiana Acadienne. Others have received from the Legion d'Honneur, the Palme Academique, for services rendered in developing French culture. Two parochial schools, Brothers of the Christian Doctrine and Sisters of Mont Carmel, teach French from the elementary grades through to high school. South Western College in Lafayette has exchanged students from Franch with some of their students now attending La Sorbonne.

The Bishop of Lafayette, Jules B. Jeannard, Commandant de la Legion d'Honneur, takes a personal interest in the advancement of the French language in his diocese.

These facts, closely patterned after the expansion of French culture elsewhere, indicate that the teaching of French in Louisiana is, in many instances, on a solid foundation.

These factors are to the fore, fighting to preserve French culture and speech in a land which up until 1803 still belonged to France. Will they be successful; will children of the new generation realize that one can speak French and English too? That, I cannot say. The damage of derogativeness has been great. The brand of "cajun" has tempted many young persons to avoid expressing their origin in their maternal speech, but the love of France is a flame not easily extinguished.

As for the Acadians of the villages of the Bayous or the sugar-bowl farms, he may, like old man Mississippi River, just keep rolling along. After all, he must express himself, and he does it nicely, just as his fathers did when they settled in Evangeline land after "le grand derangement." So, for many, many years, you may yet exchange comments about the weather with him as he drinks his demi-tasse of drip coffee, or talks about the sugar crop as he stands by the fence line beckoning toward his fields — and the musical strain of his voice echo the ascent of his forefathers, enriched with the lore and lure of new surroundings.

Cooling Dessert For Hot Days

Lime freeze made with economical nonfat dry milk is delicious served alone as a frozen dessert, or scoops of it may be piled into the heart of iced melon for a fancy looking dish that adds the right touch in sweltering weather.

Many a homemaker thanks her lucky stars for convenient nonfat dry milk. It will keep almost indefinitely on a cool, dry shelf if the package is closed carefully after each using. Food stores have easy-to-carry one-pound packages which yield five quarts of nonfat milk for as little as nine cents a quart. Nonfat dry milk is an excellent source of protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose.

Lime Freeze
(Makes 6 servings)

- 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) plain unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ cups liquefied Starlac nonfat dry milk*
- ½ cup lime juice
- 6 to 8 drops green vegetable coloring, optional
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Let stand 5 minutes. Add gelatin to boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add sugar. Carefully stir in liquefied Starlac nonfat dry milk, lime juice and green coloring. Pour into refrigerator tray. Cover with waxed paper. Freeze until mixture is almost frozen. Scrape mixture into a chilled bowl; break up large lumps. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until consistency resembles strained applesauce. Fold beaten egg whites into lime mixture. Pour mixture into two refrigerator trays. Cover with waxed paper and return to freezing compartment. Freeze until firm, about 2 hours. If desired, garnish with Starlac Whipped Topping and serve immediately.

*To liquefy Starlac nonfat dry milk, follow directions on the box.

VETERANS SERVICE WORK CONTINUED BY COUNTY COMMISSION MONDAY

Objections to budgeted expenditures for operation of county veterans service offices were swamped at a public hearing this week before the county commission as supporters of the vet group seemed assured of victory.

Original objection to the expenditure was raised before the commission last week by Sylvan Burdick, West Palm Beach attorney, who claimed that the work of the county service officers was a duplication of work being done by the Veterans Administration.

At the public hearing this week, Burdick stood alone against a jam-packed audience who crowded into the hearing room to speak for the county veteran Service group.

Burdick opened the discussion by repeating his objections of last week and pointed out that the Veterans Administration has three or four contact men here to handle veteran's cases and that these contact men have ample time to take on many more cases.

The attorney said that the only place where the VA probably did not provide a convenient service was in the Glades.

"Since we are living in an age of handouts," Burdick said, "it's not unfair if the Glades veterans have to come into West Palm Beach if he is seeking a benefit."

"Do we have to have someone sitting in our laps handing out these benefits," Burdick asked.

It was this statement that caused Commissioner Paul Rardin, Canal Point to emphatically state, "We in the Glades don't have our hand out looking for something."

Rardin said that he had followed the operation of the Glades Service Office very closely and that he was satisfied with the work that was being done.

"I intend to cast my vote for this item which pays for the splendid work being done throughout the county by this organiztaion."

Speaking in favor of the veteran appropriation were Emerson Lee, Lake Worth, who said he was one of the original organizers of the service; George Nies, president of the Veterans Alliance, who gave his personal case history of how the county service officer had helped him when according to Nies, the Veterans Administration could not; T. Harold Williams, who told of the work being done for the hospitalized veterans by the county service officers; George Peers, service officer of Lake Worth and John Picket of Pahokee, representing the Pahokee Rotary Club.

County Commission Chairman Lake Lytal in reviewing the county vetrans organization, said the group was formed after the last war and that the activities of the organization are handled by individual community committees. These veteran committies, Lytal said, plan the activities of the group, hire and fire the service officers, and supervise spending of the county appropriation.

The county commission, Lytal said, also supervises the budget expenditure and approves the personnel which works in the organization.

Final approval of the appropriation is slated for consideration July 27 when the county commission has the coming budget up for final approval.

COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT HISTORICALLY UNIQUE

The first time that the Palm Beach County Criminal Court of Record convened it had to hastily adjourn because there was no judge to sit on the bench.

That was back in January 1926 when the new court opened its initial session following creation by the state legislature.

A week later, the court convened again — this time complete with judge — and handed down a 30-day suspended sentence to the first prisoner to stand before the bar.

The man — whose identity is a matter of record but whose name need not be used here — was guilty on a charge of "voluntary use of intoxicating liquor contrary to the peace and dignity of the State of Florida.

In other words he had a snoot full when he was picked up, apparently from too much holiday spirit. He was arrested two days before Christmas.

These are some of the facts found on the first records in the criminal court which was created at a special session of the Florida legislature in November, 1925.

Most of the men who attended the first court session have since died. Still around are W. H. Lawrence, then chief deputy to Sheriff R. C. Baker and Tom Riggs, another deputy. Lawrence is now serving as a deputy to Sheriff John Kirk and Riggs, who down through the years has become familiarly known as Captain Riggs, is chief jailor for Kirk.

But getting back to the first session of court, Gov. John Martin had named Elmore Cohen, Clerk, and W. E. Roebuck, county solicitor. Both of these men were duly qualified when court first convened on January 4.

It wasn't until a week later, however, that Judge A. G. Hartridge received his commission and was qualiifed to sit on the bench and take over the criminal cases of the county which were separated from circuit court where they were originally tried.

Also present at the first session were Sheriff R. C. Baker and R. H. Monroe, a deputy.

Getting back to that first case, minutes of the opening court session related that the man plead guilty to the charge "and having nothing sufficient to say," was sentenced to 30 days hard labor and confinement in the county jail. Then the judge suspended the sentence.

Fee records in connection with the first case showed that the sheriff got $2.50; the clerk $4.80 and the county solicitor $5.

J. Louie Carter, now clerk of the criminal court, said that by mid-July, his office had rounded out more than 20,000 cases.

Generally speaking, except for slightly higher court and sheriff's fees, the court operates much the same as it did years back. Wording of charges on information have varied a bit down through the years but it's not unlikely that you will draw 30 days if you turn up on drunk charge.

Today's court officials include Clerk Carter, Judge E. G. Newell and County Solicitor T. Harold Williams.

MEDITATIONS

Just as familiar things bring back the living presence of an absent loved one so may the necessary tasks glow with a sense of God's indwelling.

Routine tasks, the humdrum of daily life, when seen through His eyes may take on new meaning.

We feel a new responsibility for cooperating with His routine.

We have to answer "present" for a lot of K.P. duty, but there's a kind of halo around the job once we've seen its meaning.

"TEACH CHILDREN SAFETY" SAYS COMDR. KIRKMAN

Many Florida children who left class rooms for a carefree vacation at the close of school, will never go back or will lose time from next term because of injuries they will have received this summer, the state highway patrol said today.

Thirty-six children under 15 years of age were killed and 734 were injured last year as a result of pedestrian accidents.

"Unless we use the greatest care and all of the precautionary measures at our command," declared Patrol Director H. N. Kirkman, "there will be an increase in pedestrian death and accident among our children."

On the national level last year, 1,542 children under 15 were killed in pedestrian accidents. One hundred thousand were injured.

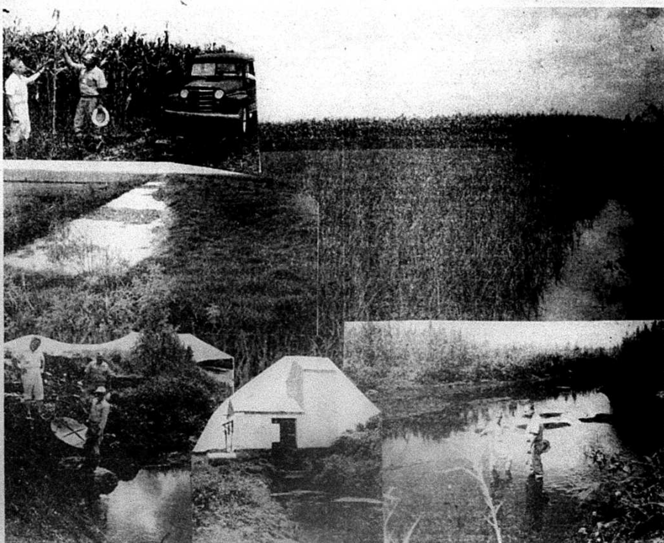

"Parents should make safe walking habits their habits for the sake of teaching their children pedestrian safety," said Kirkman. He listed some good teaching habits:

Before crossing a street, look both ways! Keep in mind that by the time you've walked 12 feet from the curb, a car traveling at 30 miles per hour has gone 132 feet.

Always use intersections for crossing. That is where motorists expect you to cross.

Never step into the street from behind parked autos and remember that darkness reduces visibility which means extreme caution should be exercised when crossing streets.

Water Control Allows Diversified Summer Operations On Duda Farms

As an operator of 1,800 acres of willow-elder and sawgrass land from which a total of 1,-400,000 packages were shipped for the past season, the Duda Farms just east of Belle Glade maintains a year-round organization employing sixty or more persons throughout the summer.

Rice, field corn and cover crops, as well as celery seed beds, coupled with reworking, repairing and building equipment keeps the summer crew busy.

Celery accounts for approximately 700,000 packages in the normal year, with sweet corn making up approximately 300,000 packages; escarole, chicory, Chinese cabbage and bell peppers account for the balance.

The production from the Duda farm in the Glades, as well as that around Ovieda and Sanford, is marketed by a cooperative organization formed of the several family members.

Sam Knight operates the Glades farms for the organization and lives with his family in Belle Glade.

In the right upper portion of picture is shown a flooded rice field with field corn in the next field. The dividing dike (center left) is shown covered with St. Augustine grass, which is planted to keep weeds and bush off the dike, prevent washing of the banks, and greatly reduce upkeep of the dike.

Lower left Mr. Roberts and Mr. Knight are inspecting the 36-inch gate at the outside end of a pump culvert. This gate allows water to be pumped out from the farm. It can be raised, when the water is high enough and water allowed to flow into the farm, or pumped, if the inside water table is too high to allow gravity to carry it in.

In the lower right Mr. Roberts and Mr. Knight are standing on the bottom of the Bolles Canal (July 2nd), demonstrating the very low table in that canal.

Being one of the main facilities of the C & S F District, this canal, when the overall works are completed, will be maintained at a minimum water table, so that lands contiguous may pump in, or out, as the occasion demands. Shoals of rock and accumulations of muck prevented the canal at this point to get water of equivalent heighth of the North New River or Hillsboro, both of which this canal enters.

In the center bottom is shown one of the pump houses on the Duda Farms. Immediately under the doorway is seen a concrete beam which is a part of the gate and control from the canal in the forefront to the pump. Similar controls are on the north (left) and on the east of the pump house.

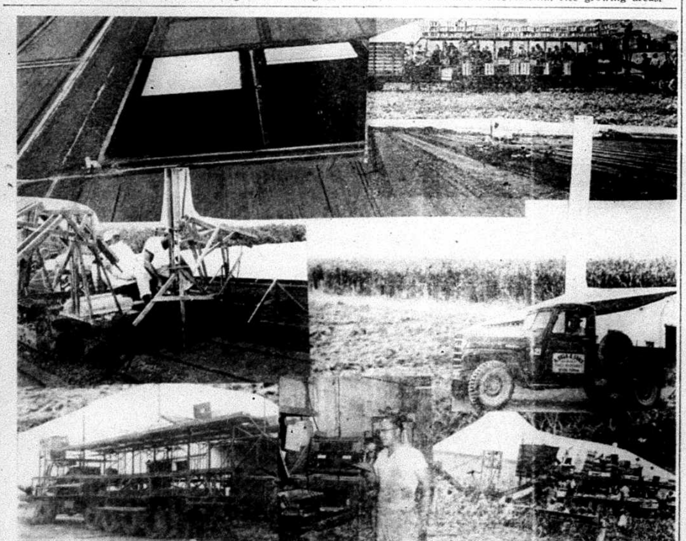

By this arrangement the water table on the west of the pump house may be drawn down as it is shown here, while the north and east areas may be flooded, as is shown in the rice and corn picture above.

In this case the rice field is flooded thru the gate and canals of the north control, while the corn field is pumped down by the west gate and canals.

The two pumps in the house shown have sufficient capacity (each 30,000 gallons per minute) to more than fill a normal city water tank each minute.

The summer crop of field corn serves both as a soil conditioner, keeps weeds and grass from growing, and furnishes a feed for cattle, and very important justifies the year round employment of key men for the regular winter crops.

Flooding of lands is practiced by all celery growers to kill soil diseases, weeds, and insests. The growing of rice and the necessary flooding accomplishes the same while a m ost profitable summer crop is being taken from the land. Thus, rice is a "natural" for the muck soils, aside from the practicability of two crops per year of a high quality and generous quantity, when compared to other continental rice growing areas.

Center right, is shown a field of "Egyptian Wheat" or Kaffir Corn planted during the off season, summer, as a soil conditioner and land-builder. The dense foliage is shown being run down, just before formation of the grain. The roots will sprout again and a second growth so heavy will be run down just before plowing for the fall crops. This growth is turned under. Land improvement and elimination of weeds and grass is a practice followed in this manner by many Glades farmers.

Upper left is shown celery seed beds with a rice field in the foreground. Also shown are rock roads, main pumping canal, covered with hyacinths, as well as control canals to the north, east and west.

Center left is shown a wide trac-tractor equipped with a hydraulic ram for correctly spacing and putting into ground "A" frames on which covers for the celery seed beds will be fastened.

Upper right is shown, top, a celery harvester. The cutting crew at right end of picture makes the celery ready for the convyor belt which takes it to the graders and packers shown. Topside the men are assembling crates which are handed down to the packers as needed. At the left the graded and packed celery is loaded on a truck which takes it to the precooling plant before loading into iced cars. Just under this picture is shown a mechanical celery seed bed shaper, which prepares the beds to receive the seed. This operation, as well as the "A" frame machine replace hand labor heretofore used.

At lower left is shown eight sets of duals plus two large areoplane tires which provide flotation for the machines in the field.

At the right center Manager Sam Knight is calling thru the central station to Nicky Paff at the machine shop to "get a man down to pump No. 2 right away —the power unit is fouled up."

Such mobile two-way radio units, of which Mr. Knight has eight, allows constant contact with his foremen, shop and other key operations.

All of the special equipment used on the Duda Farm was built and maintained by its own organization.

In the lower right is a sweet corn harvesting machine. The boom in front of the machine holds a belt which takes the ears of corn thrown on by the pickers. This belt carries the corn on to the machine where it is graded and packed, and is taken off the rear into trucks for a trip to the precooler.

This machine harvests sixteen rows on each trip, uses 40 men and women and will harvest approximately 10 acres or 2,500 crates per day.

Formerly the corn was pulled by hand, placed in carts and carried to a central point for grading and packing.
